Winter Family Reading Program

Go for the

GOLD

How to participate:

1. Select a category from the boxes on the blue sheet. Ask a librarian if you need assistance finding appropriate material.
2. After finishing a category, record the title and family member who completed it. If two people completed the category, you only have to write down one name.
3. Then cut out a single snowman part and glue on the back of the blue sheet.
4. You need to complete 14 of the 24 categories to successfully finish the program. Each category can only be used once.
5. Any family member of any age may read in a category; however, an adult family member must read at least one category on the card.
6. “Read aloud” may include adults reading to children, children reading to adults or children reading to children.
7. Bring the card back with your snowman built by February 28th.
8. You can choose either to pick a free book for your family or to donate a book to Kate’s Kart at Bluffton Regional Hospital.

Kate's Kart is a not-for-profit organization that supplies free books to hospitalized children to keep for their enjoyment. Their goal is to promote literacy and encourage children, and their families, to read on an ongoing basis. Kate's Kart was founded in 2008 by the Layman family in memory of their daughter, Katherine Anne Layman (affectionately known to family and friends as "Baby Kate"). The Kart at Bluffton Regional was started in honor of Xander Powers, son of Zach and Meghann Powers of Ossian. For more information, check out the website at www.kateskart.org.
